Salt & Ice Challenge - please be aware:

The “Salt and Ice Challenge” is an online trend where young people place salt on their skin and press ice on top for as long as possible.

This creates a chemical reaction, rapidly lowering the temperature and causing cryogenic (cold) burns, similar to frostbite. Children and young people may underestimate the harm as the cold numbs the skin, masking pain until significant damage has occurred. Risks

Second- or third-degree burns, potential need for skin grafts, lasting scarring, nerve damage, and impact on wellbeing.

Peer and online pressure amplify the likelihood of wider uptake. Recent Cases ED teams in North East London have already treated children for significant burns linked to this challenge. Similar surges have been reported nationally and internationally in the past.

The Spy Dogs/Pups and Spy Cat books written by Andrew Cope contain a link to a website which contains highly pornographic content. The book asks children to explore the website to find more about the characters in the book. It appears the website identified has now been compromised and takes users to a pornographic website with no age verification.

Tips to keeping your child safe online

- Check age ratings and platform features.
- Have regular conversations; Talk about what to do if something worries or upsets them and remind them that they can always come to you for help. These conversations help children feel supported and more confident in recognising and reporting anything unsafe.
- Review safety setting: Help children stay safe online by turning off location sharing and setting accounts to private. Use privacy controls to limit who can send friend requests, send message or comment on posts. Support their well-being by helping them block or report harmful content, set app time limits, and have regular conversations about what they see and experience online.

Attendance reminders:

All children need to be in school by 8:40am daily, otherwise this will be marked as late.

Please ensure medical evidence is provided for any external appointments for your child e.g. doctors appointment.

Online Safety hub for parents

As you have been made aware our trust Hamwic Education Trust have set up an Online portal guidance for parents.

Online Safety Hub - Hamwic Education Trust

As pupils become older and move through the school the guidance could be really useful for parents.

Whats App

The 'Add Everyone' WhatsApp group is recirculating amongst children. This group has been highlighted as a significant safeguarding concern due to the potential to expose children and young people to explicit, abusive and harmful content.

The group's purpose is to invite children to join a chat that contains inappropriate content and encourage them to add inappropriate comments and add other children but not their parents or safe adults. Children as young as 9 have been reported as being on this group.

Being late for school every day can lead to lost learning time

Did you know being late 15 minutes each day is the same as missing two weeks of school?

School Times

Children arriving after 8:40am must enter the school via the Office and use the Sign In app for Safeguarding purposes.

We recognise that good attendance (above 96%) is key to good pupil outcomes. The links between regular attendance, reaching potential attainment and future life opportunities are well researched. For this reason, the school will encourage good attendance and be robust in monitoring attendance and take action when attendance falls below the expected level. Good attendance impacts significantly on progress, learning, friendship groups and the child's overall happiness at school.
